

Ask Yourself

Have you had to frequently deal with an unexpected "crisis"?

Is lack of inventory, equipment maintenance, or supply organization costing you time, expense, and declining morale?

Has it been too long since you had the time to focus on the company's strategic plan?

Are your employees good people who work hard but fail to understand the "big picture" or comply with changes in operations or policies?

Are there changes you know you need to make but just don't know where to start?

If you answered "yes" to any of these questions, Carroll Enterprises can help!

Jim Carroll

A hands-on professional approach to dealing with the issues facing fleet managers and home delivery operations

Strategic Operations Solutions

Finding and executing solutions

It isn't enough to just tell you what may be wrong with your fleet operation, make suggestions and then disappear into the sunset.

So you can get the full benefit of Carroll Enterprises' decades of hands-on practical experience and knowledge in the home delivery industry fleet operations field, we do the whole job for you.

Our company is committed to finding and executing solutions not simply analyzing problems. We dedicate ourselves to working with you throughout the process — from identifying the issues, to defining innovative solutions, to monitoring results...without the prohibitive costs of a full-time management salary and benefits.

Here's how the Carroll Enterprises system works:

- First, we assess your fleet operations — what's right, what's wrong, what can be fixed and what can be worked around. We'll look for ways to streamline your systems...to save time and money...to minimize down time, fuel waste, emergency repairs and more.
- Next, we discuss ways of correcting your issues, dealing with your challenges, making your operation smoother, more efficient, more successful.

- Then, we'll roll up our sleeves and pitch right in to help you and your company implement whatever changes we've discussed and agreed on — working shoulder-to-shoulder to help you build your personnel into a cohesive and productive team.
